From the State Sentinel.

The Democratic State Convention and its Nominations.

The State Convention which assembled at the Capitol on yesterday was one of the largest deliberative assemblies ever convened in Indiana, and one whose acts will, we have no doubt, be productive of the most beneficial results to the Democratic party of our noble State.

The Convention was composed of the bone and sinew of the party—men in whom the people have been wont to repose confidence, and who have never proved themselves unworthy of its confidence thus repeated. Each delegate told that he had an important duty to perform, and set about to discharge that duty with a full
sense of the responsibility resting upon him.

We must refer our readers to the proceedings

to follow for full details.

Our readers will find in our columns a full account of the action of the Convention, and confine ourselves to a brief notice of the gentlemen who have been chosen as the standard bearers of the Democracy of Indiana in the important canvass
now about to open.

ASHBEL P. WILLARD was nominated for Speaker by a large majority, and the unanimity and the enthusiasm with which the nomination was received is a sufficient indication of the place
he holds in the hearts of the people. His eloquent voice has often been heard in every portion of the State in defense of the principles and measures
of the Democratic party, and we predict that this will be the case again.

Those affected with the above named diseases
are invited to call at my office, on CALHOUN ST.

MEDICAL NOTICE.

Dr. T. R. KINGET.

Eclectic Practitioner, Oculist, and

Physician for Diseases of the Lungs.

For some years, Mr. Mordaunt, Ethel's husband, who turned his talents to account by teaching drawing, contrived by dint of unceasing industry to support his delicate and ailing wife in comfort if not in affluence. Ethel also brought her husband one child, a fair daughter, named after herself, whose sweet affectionate disposition endeared her to both her parents' hearts, and made amends to her mother for the loss of a sister's countenance and love. With deep emotion, however, Mrs. Mordaunt read in the public prints
the announcement of this unforgetting sister's de-

Gen. JOHN W. DODD, of Grant, the nominee for Auditor of State, is a sound Democrat, a genuine man of untiring energy, and of fine business qualifications. The Democracy will extend to him his hearty endorsement.

DANIEL MCCLURE, of Morgan, for Secretary of State, is a name not so familiar as the two proceeding, but those who know him best are his most ardent friends. He made a bold and manly fight as a candidate for the State Senate in 1851, and although then beaten down
by the forces of Know-Nothingism and Abolition, he contributed much towards exposing the evil tendencies of those issues. His qualifications are of the highest order.

Fifty Years of Public Life.

THE LIFE AND TIMES OF LEWIS CASS.

BY DEBBY, No. 1 Nassau St., N.Y. Publisher.

The public career of General Cass extends through half a century, and is intimately associated with the growth and prosperity of the Western States. Many facts and incidents connected with his life, and the political career of various men in the administration of the government—Michigan—as well as the public services of General Cass both at home and abroad—will be preserved to more fitness and accuracy by being compiled during his life-time. The work will be done by a man whose name has afforded every facility for information, in gathering material for his purpose, and will be ready for publication as soon as five thousand copies are subscribed for.

The book will make a very interesting volume about 150 pages, large octavo, neat cloth, embellished with a portrait on steel, and delivered to subscribers in the price of three dollars per copy.

The subscriber is general agent for the State of Indiana, and will receive names of subscribers for this valuable book.

Horticultural Review : A JOURNAL OF SUBURBAN ART.

Especially and Profusely Illustrated—Devoted to the Advancement of the Rural Interests in America.

THIS is one of the largest and most elaborate works of the kind in the world.

We have many more copies of the principal last work, and many more copies of our earlier editions of model cottages, from designs by eminent and skillful artists. Some is also assigned to the useful art of Landscape Gardening, engraved plans of gardens in every style, and adapted to the peculiarities of different orders of architecture, beauty the like.

Drawings of new fruits, new flowers, new vegetable, &c. are illustrated and described as soon as their respective qualities can be determined, forming a complete and elegant Manual of Rural Husbandry ever attempted.

An experienced corps of practical writers, seven in number, are engaged to fill its columns. It contains several large pages, and is printed on the finest pearl surfaced paper, and made up expressly for our subscribers.

Terms—$2 per annum, payable invariably in advance. Fifty cents on admission, each subscriber allowed to those who are members, and those who are not, the twenty largest subscribers. These premiums will be paid in cash. The first premium will be $500.

The following are selected from hundreds of similar publications, particularly contributed by correspondents.

The Horticultural Review does the most liberal and impartial service. It is the best effort of the late Dr. K. L. Kidder.

The most elegant and useful book of the kind that has ever come under our observation—Register.

Mr. Reagles, the Editor of the Horticultural Review is a practical planter and one of the fine school of agricultural books. He possesses the great descriptive powers of Dickens, the eloquent gossip of Walpole, combined with a thorough knowledge of practical State Police Tribune.

Farmers will find it a most unexpended medium for their agricultural review circulation, especially in every State on the Union. Advertisements inserted at the rate of $10 per page.

WOOD ENGRAVING!

Those requiring wood engraving can have their orders executed in an unrivaled manner. SPECIAL ATTENTION is given to VIEWS OF ANIMALS: an experience English Draughtsmen is engaged for this department. It is a most intelligent treatise, a rare compilation of the beautiful and the useful. Argus.

We had thought that in Dargomys's death, the era of great advancement in wood engraving was at an end. Remembrance, but Mr. Pease's was a dying equally rich man of mental wealth, that has taken the full sense of the spirit that is gone—Monroe Tribune.

Advertisers will find it a most unexpended medium for their agricultural review circulation, especially in every State on the Union. Advertisements inserted at the rate of $10 per page.

STONE ENGRAVING!

Those requiring wood engraving can have their orders executed in an unrivaled manner. SPECIAL ATTENTION is given to VIEWS OF ANIMALS: an experience English Draughtsmen is engaged for this department. It is a most intelligent treatise, a rare compilation of the object (by mail) they wish engraved, which will be a sufficient guide to obtain a perfect fac simile. Stock Breeders will be dealt with on very liberal terms.

On Engraving Lines already very large, a further extension is not desired, unless publishers are willing to give the above advertisement several insertions in their respective papers.

Agricultural B. Books can be furnished on every subject, from and including American Authors, by sending to us the address of the price of the book required.

Specimen copies will be forwarded on the receipt of 10c in postage stamp.

Nominations.

The State Convention which assembled at the Capitol on yesterday was one of the largest democratic assemblies ever convened in Indiana, and one whose acts will, we have no doubt, be productive of the most beneficial results to the Democracy
of our noble State.

The Convention was composed of the honest and true men of the party—men in whom the people have won to repose confidence, and who have never proved themselves unworthy of the confidence thus reposed. Each delegate felt it had an important duty to perform, and
set about to discharge that duty with a full
sense of the responsibility resting upon him.

We found them, in mining countries, as they are known to be in those adventurous days—further more male, and fortunes were lost; but when the latter reversed itself, Mr. Trasher, a great mining speculator, attended with many disastrous circumstances, he had no strength of mind to bear up against calamity, but speedily succumbed beneath the blow, leaving three orphaned children totally destitute. Harry, the eldest, a youth just about to leave school, exhibited an unusual degree of self-reliance and independence, and his friends, and the influence of his mother, induced him to go to New York, where he became a sailor, and made his fortune
in the Merchant Service.

ASHLEY J. WILLARD was nominated for Governor by a large majority, and the unanimity and enthusiasm with which the nomination was received is a sufficient indicia of the place
he holds in the hearts of the people. His eloquent speeches have often been heard in every portion of the State in defense of the principles and measures
of the Democratic party, and we predict that before the next election of Governor, he will be chosen to fill the office of Governor of Indiana.

ASHER D. STONE was selected for Lieutenant Governor, and the unanimous acclaim with which the nomination was received

Singular Phenomenon.—This morning about 12 o'clock three axes were visible in the heavens, and another about the same south. The weather at the time was clear and bright, with thermometer 10° below zero.

The old story.—The politicians in Congress have not yet elected a Speaker. Mr. Banks' friends were fully determined that none but himself should be the Speaker, and others were equally determined that he shall not fill the Chair. The farce of election is regularly going through, and regularly the result is the same.—Banks falling 6 or 7 votes short of an election. This ten is costing the country five to ten thousand dollars per day. By the time an organization is effected, we shall be liable to lose up much we have got to pay for the folly of electing a fusion Congress. In our opinion there who were instrumental in effecting the folly will see that they have paid for it, for the whilst—their success will not pay the cost.

Hacking and Filing.—The rates taken in the House of Representatives on Saturday are worthy of notice, as most amazing specimens of hacking and filing. The Boston House first rejected by one majority, a resolution that no man should be elected Speaker who is not in favor of the restoration of the Missouri Restriction, and who will not exert himself to that end.

It adopted, by one majority, a resolution that it ought to be "restored," in order to review causes and harmony among the States of the Union?

3. By three majority it rejected a resolution that the slavery agitation ought to be pursued until the "restoration" is restored.

4. It adopted, by one majority, a resolution that any agitation of the slavery question is "unwise," "unjust" and "injurious" to a "portion of the American people," and that it "ought not to be countenanced."

5. It declared, by fifteen majority, that the report of the Missouri Restriction was untrue and unjust in the American people.

Fusion Movement.—The Indians in Indiana are already in motion for the next campaign. The first movement is to be a grand (so called) Compromise Convention to be held at Indianapolis on the 22d February. This is a hot lead out to induce the honest friends of compromise into another grand political coalition, and enlist them against the democracy. It may succeed to some extent; but we apprehend, not to the extent expected by the wire-workers. The experience of the past year has worked a profound change in this respect. The experiment of a Prohibitory Law, prepared by its advocates and passed without change or amendment, has been tried and proved a failure. It is opposed to public sentiment, and could not have been enforced, even if sustained by the supreme Court. As a preventive of intemperance it was impotent, while many of its provisions are so manifestly unjust that any party which would now uphold it must inevitably be defeated. Such whirlwinds of excitement and storms of popular frenzy have swept over the state in 1855 that are not usually experienced more than once in a generation, and any attempt to renew it this year will prove abortive.

The next public step in the programme is a Fusion State Convention on the 1st of May. Prior to this, however, the Dark lantern party will meet in secret conference, and have all the business eat and drink, resolutions prepared, and a platform sketched out. An attempt may also be made to rouse the Anti Nebraska coalition and enlist the black troops of abolitionism in the cause. The wranglings and bickerings of the discordant elements of fusion will be sought to be healed up, and hopes are entertained that all can be again united in a grand crusade against democracy and the right of self-government. The leaders may unite, but they will find they cannot draw the masses with them. The hollowiness of their pretences is now manifest. They have no common principle to bind them together, and the people see that their sole object in public plodder, to secure which they would endanger the Union, array state against state, people against people, creed against creed—and have already arrayed themselves against each other. These things are now manifest, and will be vain to attempt to mislead the intelligent citizens of Indiana into a repetition of the folly of 1851.

The Democratic State Conventions of Georgia and Alabama have declared in favor of the reelection of Gen. Pierce to the high station, so now file with so much ability.

Disastrous Conflagration in Auburn.—On Tuesday morning last, about 2 o'clock, the large three-story block belonging to Messrs. Ralston and Park in Auburn was discovered to be alighted, and so rapid was the work of destruction that by 4 o'clock the entire building together with Mr. Weaver's drug store adjoining, and the Treasurer's office on the opposite side of the street, was reduced to a mass of smoking ruins. The building was occupied as stores by Mr. Park and Messrs. McBride & Kline. In the appurtenances were the Cold Spring Hall, the messenger printing office, and news offices. Little or nothing was saved, and we regret to learn that Brother Pierce's printing office was not insured, and is a total loss. The books and safe of the Treasurer's office were saved. The loss is estimated at $15,000 to $20,000 of which $10,000 is covered by insurance.

The fire was most intense, and was clearly seen at the distance of 12 miles.

OUR REPRESENTATIVE.

Mr. Breton, our Representative (?) in Congress, has shown strong symptoms of restlessness, and a desire to break faith with the deluded Anti-Nebraskaites and Abolitionists who elected him to Congress. On several occasions he voted against Mr. Banks, the Whig candidate for Speaker, giving an reason that he could not be elected, and it was time to be looking round for a more creditable name. Horace Greeley, who is in Washington, and has assumed the guardianship of the helpless gentlemen composing the lesser branch or branches of Congress, therefore mounted his luckless representative rough-shod, and in a communication to the Tribune thus spoke of him:

"I wish the honest and faithful opponents of Slavery Extension who have twice elected Mr. Breton to Congress on that score, when on their arrival the ground the Whigs would have given against him, could have looked down from the galleries, and see him supporting this demonstration."

It would have been a painful lesson to them, but one which they would have forgotten no faster than by its repetition. The end of the day, and surprise ensued on the countenance of the true and steadfast men who have been supporting Mr. Banks in order to elect him; the exultation and joy of the strugglees, triumphant and invincible of all sorts, as well as of the avowed and mortal Slavery Extenders!—this was a scene to be remembered to the end of a long life!

This of course rather ruffled the morally placid nature of Mr. Breton, and he retorted on Horace that in measured terms, charging him with,

"I have attached much confidence to these rumors. Washington correspondents always like to give something exciting to their readers. The popular taste demands highly seasoned viands; therefore the Washington cooks and purveyors spiced liberally with wiles and rumors of wiles. This has always been our opinion of the origin of the warlike rumors constantly floating in the papers, and this authoritatively denied, by the Union sustain our position, and may satisfy the public that peace will be maintained."

The Standard at this place has been discontinued, Mr. Burroughs, the editor, being incapacitated by the injury he received from getting his hand crippled by his steam press, from attending to the editorial duties. Although opposed to the abolition views of Mr. B., we give him credit for a great zeal and honest purpose in this advocacy, and wish him ample success in his business, he may hereafter undertake.

Mission to England.—Mr. Buchanan has organized a mission to resign his station as minister to England, and shortly returning home. Mr. Davis has been offered the appointment, and it is stated to be confirmed.

The Kirkland Co. Times (Boston) on its long communication denouncing his "wicked or blundering course." After quoting from the address adopted by the Convention which nominated Mr. Benton, recited by a committee of which he was a member, and taking the strongest anti-slavery grounds, the writer continues—

"Such sentiments, fellow citizens, in the extremities of the hour, Mr. Benton, were reiterated to us, belonging to Mr. James Marshall, of Boone Co. Kentucky, and a woman (wife of the young man) with four children, belonging to Mr. C. G. Gaines, escaped last Sunday night, and took refuge in the house of a free negro in Cincinnati. On Monday the owner arrived in pursuit, and in company with a posse of officers tracked the fugitives to their hiding place. The doors were fastened, and while trying to force an entrance the officers were fired upon by the young man, wounding one of the officers in the finger, and upper lip. The doors were then forced open, and the fugitives emerged, but not until the desperado had fired three more shots from his revolver, fortunately without effect. The youngest child, a girl three years old, was discovered lying on the floor with her throat cut from ear to ear, and the other children had also been desperately wounded, but not fatally, by the parents who had determined rather to kill their children than have them taken back to bondage. A coroner's inquest was held on the body of the girl, and a verdict found that she was killed by her mother, and changing the others of the party with being accessories.

The parties remain in custody of the U. S. Marshal, but a writ of habeas corpus has been issued commanding him to produce the fugitives before a court of justice.

Bloody Tragedy.—Three slaves, a father, mother, and son, belonging to Mr. James Marshall, of Boone Co. Kentucky, and a woman (wife of the young man) with four children, belonging to Mr. C. G. Gaines, escaped last Sunday night, and took refuge in the house of a free negro in Cincinnati. Fifty Years of Public Life.

THE LIFE AND TIMES OF LEWIS CASS.

101 Nassau St., N. York, Publisher.

W. L. G. SMITH, N. Y., Compiler.

135 public career of General Cass extends through half a century, and is illustrated in his life, and the history of the Western States. Many facts and incidents connected with his early retirement—the negotiation of various Indian Treaties, administration of the government at Washington, as well as the public services rendered him, will be presented to the members and accuracy by being exemplified during his life-time. The work is prepared by a committee to whom General Cass has shown every facility for information, and is intended for publication as soon as five thousand copies are subscribed for.

Mr. Cass will make a handsome volume of about six hundred pages, large octavo, leather, containing all the documents and facts which will be published in the present three dollars per copy.

The subscriber in general agrees for the State of Indiana, and will receive names of subscribers for this valuable book.
